

Global Tuberculosis Institute TB Consultation Service

The Global Tuberculosis Institute at Rutgers, The State University of New Jersey provides consultation services for complex tuberculosis cases to physicians, nurses, and public health staff in the Northeastern region. The Global TB Institute's team of consultants is composed of skilled clinicians, pharmacists, and other experts with extensive experience in adult and pediatric medicine, and TB prevention and control. These consultants are available to answer questions about difficult cases including multidrug-resistant TB, TB co-infections, adverse drug reactions, contact investigations, and other cases with difficult medical and public health management issues.

Consultations are provided through the Global TB Institute's customized ID Crowd site, which facilitates the sharing of clinical cases and documents with the TB consultants and provides a platform for inviting other experts and key stakeholders to participate in the conversation.

Providers may also request a consultation in a number of ways:

- By visiting Rutgers.idcrowd.org
- By email at mc_gtbi@njms.rutgers.edu
- By phone at 1-800-482-3627

Initiating a consultation through the ID Crowd website

For more information, please visit: globaltb.njms.rutgers.edu/tb_consultation